CP of all Pokemon scale with your character. Every Pokemon has a (so far) unknown value that is considered their true "Max CP." At each Trainer Level, the game decides the Pokemon's current CP cap based on your level with a (so far) unknown formula. However, the multipliers that are used to calculate how strong a Pokemon is are as follows. While special needs equipment, such as walkers, are usually associated with the elderly or infirm, there's a segment of young users who require specialized pediatric walkers. A walker for kids may be required as a gait trainer, or a safety roller with or without an integrated seat/harness or a glider walker used to give a child self-confidence. I recently ordered him a new dynamic gait trainer with a multi-position saddle and he now walks the entire length of the high school gym and back. He is comfortable and proud of himself. I think Rift on Equipment is the best made and helps our student to become as independent as possible while being safe and properly supported.".
